

Claude DEBUSSY
CENTENARY EDITION 2018

PRÉLUDES
livre II

A rectangular inset showing a handwritten signature in black ink on a light-colored background. The signature is written in a cursive style and reads "Claude Debussy".

Musical Health Warning : please be aware that these editions are definitely not urtext and should be consulted together with a traditional version. They have been devised purely to help solve musical and technical problems at the piano.

Please send comments and error reports to Ray Alston : contact@pianopracticaleditions.com

Claude DEBUSSY 1862 - 1918

PRÉLUDES livre II

- I BROUILLARDS 1
- II FEUILLES MORTES 10
- III LA PUERTA DEL VINO 15
- IV « LES FÉES SONT D'ESQUISSES DANSEUSES » 21
- V BRUYÈRES 31
- VI « GENERAL LAVINE » — ECCENTRIC 37
- VII LA TERRACE DES AUDIENCES DU CLAIR DE LUNE 44
- VIII ONDINE 52
- IX HOMMAGE À S. PICKWICK ESQ. P.P.M.P.C. 61
- X CANOPE 67
- XI LES TIERCES ALTERNÉES 71
- XII FEUX D'ARTIFICE 78

Much has been written about the many sets of piano preludes which have appeared since the original and definitive works of Bach celebrating fine tuning and circular temperament. For the most part they form collections in multiples of 12* and often encompass all the major and minor keys. Debussy however formed a new genre offering diffident 'symbolist' clues to their character and content via delayed subtitles which appear bracketed at the final bars. Without the justification of tonality, the number twelve has no strict reason save almost certain deference to Chopin, whose preludes he was editing for Durand. Piano Practical Editions finally presents these master works in two volumes as the composer originally planned.

Before their publication, the bulk of the Debussy's output for piano featured descriptive exotic or catchy titles, but in 1910 he chose the generic name of Préludes and worked rapidly on their completion; sketches show that the project may have begun as early as 1907. Sources of inspiration for this second volume are very varied and reflect a wide range of 'world music'; Egyptian antiquity, mortality, visual arts, dance, the natural world, folk music, poetry, literature, Dickens, legends, Spain, and an American Clown.

« Il n'y a pas de théorie : il suffit d'entendre. Le plaisir est la règle » — There is no theory : you only need to listen. Pleasure is the rule.

— Debussy

On 5 March 1913, Debussy gave the first performances of Brouillards, Feuilles mortes, and la Puerta del Vino at the Salle Erard in Paris. In recital the preludes are sometimes performed in groups of three — i.e. 1-3 which revolve around B flat, or alternatively ce qu'a vu le vent d'ouest sharing the same tonic with la fille aux cheveux de lin and then G flat accentuated at the opening of la sérénade interrompue. There are many juxtaposing contrasts: ce qu'a vu le vent d'ouest framed by des pas sur la neige and la fille aux cheveux de lin or la cathédrale engloutie at the centre of la sérénade interrompue and la danse de Puck.

Like all great works of art these preludes invite a lifetime of discovery and exploration; they cover a wide range of musical and pianistic demands, not always evident at first, but always rewarding the inquisitive. Rapid and light fingerwork, lightning jumps across the keyboard, the need to project several degrees of dynamics, particularly muted — these are the difficulties facing a serious musician.

Stephen Walsh : As in the second book of Images but not at all in the first book of Preludes, Debussy sets the music out on three staves for at least part of every piece, whether or not the music's complexity seems to require it. Just as with the Images, it seems that in contact with the piano Debussy could write freely, exploring the implications of his unique idiom in a completely uninhibited way, but that when it was a matter of composing for a more 'impersonal' medium and on a larger scale for orchestra, with or without voices, or for the stage — he was forced to think in a more linear, syntactical, perhaps objective manner, that raised issues of procedure he was increasingly reluctant to confront. When he had talked to Caplet about the twenty bars suffocated by tradition, he may well have meant the sort of music that, in every eighteenth- and nineteenth-century composer you could name, bore the structure along from one distinctive gesture to the next, making sense of works that might otherwise disintegrate under the sheer weight of irrepressible, disconnected inventiveness: the musical details that information theorists describe with the charming term 'redundant'. It may go against the grain to think of anything in, say, Mozart or Schubert or even Brahms as redundant. But, purely in the sense that a lot of what happens in their music is predictable, the redundant is an important, if humble, part of their language. It looks as if, at least where the House of Usher was concerned, Claude Debussy, the lifelong enemy of rules was now in rebellion against redundancy.

Much of what happened to music — and to art in general — in the twentieth century marked a break, conscious or unconscious, with the nineteenth. The past was an orphan parent, rejected by its children, despised by its grandchildren. Debussy, too, found fault with his forebears and tried to do things differently from them. But while he questioned their methods, he never doubted their fundamental intention, which was to create beauty and to share sensibilities, to communicate wonder at the richness of the world around us and the various ways our senses give us of responding to it. His music is without ideology and without doctrine. Like the world, it simply is, take it or leave it.

Debussy: A Painter in Sound (2018)

by Stephen Walsh

Paul Roberts : More than 100 years after Debussy's death, it still needs stating and defending: sound, atmosphere and 'fairy-tale' charm, so characteristic of Debussy, are not finally the reasons for playing and listening to this music, for being drawn to it and possessed by it. Just as the painters of his epoch saw what had been hitherto unseen, so Debussy heard what had been unheard. His images and allusions were, paradoxically, a means of provoking an intensity of listening. In a voice that was often subdued, he distilled and communicated the essence of the external world and touched the core of human experience.

Lockspeiser & Halbreich :

These preludes have a very different objective from those of Chopin, and there is no question of comparing them. For the Pole, these are striking reductions of moods, psychological snapshots suddenly illuminating the innermost self. For the Frenchman, on the other hand, they are evocations intended to express an impression, to create a state of sensitivity and awareness conducive to the identification of the chosen theme, landscape or character. From the poetic realism of the Images, we have moved to the more abstract plane of musical symbolism.

Roger Nichols : The late Mary Antonietti, a pianist and cousin of Gustav Holst who met Debussy when he came to London in 1909, remembered that Book II of the Préludes was greeted in Britain with slight disappointment. That this was general we can to some extent see from the sales figures quoted by Roy Howat: 'By Debussy's death in March 1918, Book I had been reprinted five times, making a total of 8,360 copies; Book II had been reprinted twice, making a total of 4,000 copies.' Even allowing for Book I's three-year start, the discrepancy is worth noting. But with time, the attractions of Book II have become clearer, and it seems likely that its more advanced harmonies and syntax were the cause of its relatively slow acceptance.

Harry Halbreich : The genesis of the second book is much more difficult to establish than that of the first. The pieces seem to have been composed at fairly long intervals during the three years between 1910 and 1912, but it is impossible to be more precise. We know only that la terrasse des audiences du clair de lune dates from December 1912. Debussy himself introduced Canope and Hommage à S. Pickwick on 19 lune 1913.

World Music **

In May 1889, a major cultural event was staged in the Champ de Mars in the vicinity of the recently completed Eiffel Tower. The celebrated Paris Exposition Universelle had already been running for three weeks by the time the 26-year-old composer attended, with countries from all over the world exhibiting the best of their art, culture and lifestyle. In the crucial weeks which followed, Debussy's experience of musical cultures from Java, Cambodia and Vietnam would make a lasting — indeed legendary — contribution to the development not just of the young composer himself, but to the history of Western music as a whole.

At this time, Debussy was no novice in what we now refer to as 'world music', and while in Russia, as a guest of Nadezhda von Meck he encountered the Russian nationalists' fascination with music of the East.

In 1895, Debussy wrote "Javanese music, which is able to express every shade of meaning, even unmentionable shades... which make our tonic and dominant seem like ghosts, for use by naughty little children". His music from 1889 onwards, and his piano works such as Pagodes in particular, began to develop unmistakable traces of this new cultural influence.

— Martin Buzacott

* Bach, Chopin, Scriabin, Messiaen, Shostakovich, Szymanowski

Recommended reading:

- Debussy: The Quiet Revolutionary Victor Lederer
- The Piano Music of Claude Debussy Alfred Cortot
- Images: The Piano Music of Claude Debussy Paul Roberts
- Debussy: A Painter in Sound Stephen Walsh
- Debussy, sa vie et sa pensée Edward Lockspeiser & Harry Halbreich
- The Art of French piano music & Debussy in proportion — a musical analysis Roy Howat
- The Life of Debussy & Debussy Remembered Roger Nichols

In 2018, during the course of the centenary year Piano Practical Editions became a creative and critical working publication; in addition to suggestions of fingering, hand disposition and sostenuto pedal, you will find significant modifications to the general layout with alternative key signatures, staves, barlines, time- and key- signatures and varied fonts. I have also enjoyed the challenge of translating French texts, and vocabularies may be found on pages 94 - 96.

In this second book of Preludes, metronome speeds have been virtually abandoned — he once wrote: "as a rose which might only last for one morning, a metronome speed might only work for one bar" — only one prelude suggests a metronome speed.

The strong influence of French piano music is surely identified with Chopin and Debussy who share a unique position as masters of an exceptional instrument; through an extensive affinity with the sustaining pedal they each created a personal language conceived to communicate their work with the greatest authenticity.

Ray Alston November 2023

I

Improvised and intangible we discover fleeting misty images, the two hands seldom agreeing on a shared key structure, fragments of a sombre melody in octaves at widely spaced registers and a shimmering right hand accompaniment similar to Pagodes and Reflets dans l'eau. Completed in 1911, this first prelude of the set is a demanding test of creative pedalling to project an aura of mystery, a sensuous dream drifting in and out of the fog.

A mist of sonorities, unresolved by layering at the minor second, tonalities which inter-blend bestow a surreal, almost ghostlike impression to the melodic line from which it tries to free itself. A few brief flashes of light suppressed at once by the fog, their sudden disappearance causing even more uncertainty and ambiguity.

— Cortot

'Brouillards' lurks in a misty world similar to that of Voiles (Book 1), but here the fog is denser and is the subject of the piece. Vaporous, overlapping sonorities hover in the evaporating mists. Blended polytonal harmonies, short arpeggios, and unresolved cadences suggest scarves of floating mist that block out all but a few dimly discerned objects. A phantomlike phrase emerges and is soon lost in the mists of suspended harmony. A flash or two of brighter sonorities then another fragmentary motive appears and disappears. It evokes a gothic image, haunting and ghostly. The section beginning at 32 is reminiscent of Ravel's great gothic fantasy 'une barque sur l'océan' from Miroirs, published in 1906.

The two opening preludes evoke characteristically Debussyan landscapes, leaving the performer and

J.M.W. TURNER YACHT APPROACHING THE COAST 1835

listener in no doubt as to how to respond imaginatively. Neither title need have any special significance beyond the image evoked, yet neither is without a certain ambiguity. 'Brouillards' might refer to the dual tonality which results in aural distortion and lack of focus. In this sense the title of the opening prelude is a straightforward

metaphor, alluding to tonal mists as much as to real mist, just as the closing prelude 'feux d'artifice' may be said to allude to pianistic brilliance as well as to actual fireworks.

'Feuilles Mortes' conveys a precise seasonal image, but for the French, the phrase also means the colour russet. 'Feuilles' also refers to the leaves of a book, giving the title yet another dimension. The two preludes seem to have been conceived from the start as the opening pair, sharing the same tonal centre. In performance, the transition from the one to the other creates that same trance-like intensity of mood that we saw in the transitions in the early part of Book I.

'Brouillards' does not end so much as hang in suspension, unresolved creating in the process an aural equivalent of static mist. If we continue with the same pulse, the two opening chords of 'Feuilles Mortes' will be heard as a repetition, reorchestrated and enriched, of the last two triads of 'Brouillards'.

Three short extracts citing mists or fog
by poets who have inspired Debussy...

Ô fins d'automne, hivers, printemps trempés de boue,
Endormeuses saisons ! je vous aime et vous loue
D'envelopper ainsi mon cœur et mon cerveau
D'un linceul vapoureux et d'un brumeux tombeau.

Charles Baudelaire Brumes et Pluies

Brouillards, montez! versez vos cendres monotones
Avec de longs haillons de brume dans les cieux
Que noiera le marais livide des automnes Et bâtissez un grand plafond silencieux!

Stéphane Mallarmé l'Azur

Les humides prairies au couchant étendues
Se voilent de vapeurs qui montent lentement
Et vont couvrir bientôt les terres disparues
Sous les brouillards bleuis qui tremblent faiblement.

Pierre Louÿs le Soir à la Campagne

'No theme, no development; no traditional form; no counterpoint, but neither any harmony in the usual sense of the term; no melodies, no accompaniment; no principal and secondary voices; neither diatonic nor chromatic tonality — is there even a tonality? Nothing that echoes his contemporaries i.e. Schoenberg or Mahler.

— Dieter Schnebel

The fog is depicted by the simultaneous use of white-note and black-note patterns — making grey. As in 'des pas sur la neige', melodic fragments break through the murk from time to time, but the piece ends on a complex unresolved dissonance, the only one of the Preludes to do so.

— Roger Nichols

From the beginning of this second Book we see the assertion of a mastery that comes from a boldness and novelty which have lost none of their impact today. From the strangely polytonal Brouillards emerge scraps of theme, which are again stripped by procedures similar to that of cinematographic masks. When the fog finally lifts, we do not see beautiful countryside but a prosaic and damp suburb.

— Harry Halbreich

Duration: 3'45

- phrasing, dynamics and accentuation are not a strict copy from any particular source
- key signatures in all staves modified throughout
- 40 editorial sostenuto pedal to be coupled with the sustaining pedal

— Paul Roberts

modéré extrêmement égal et léger

I

4 pp

5

2 2

2 2

f la main gauche un peu en valeur sur la main droite

3 3

6 6

6

m.d.

5 4

pp

5

pp

7

2 2

2 2

Musical score for measures 9 and 10. The system consists of three staves: a vocal line at the top and a piano accompaniment at the bottom. Measure 9 begins with a piano accompaniment of eighth-note chords and a vocal line starting with a quarter note. Measure 10 continues the piano accompaniment and features a vocal line with a half note. The dynamic marking più pp is placed between the staves in measure 10. A fermata is placed over the vocal line in measure 10.

Musical score for measures 11 and 12. The system consists of three staves. Measure 11 features a vocal line with a half note and a piano accompaniment of eighth-note chords. Measure 12 continues the piano accompaniment and features a vocal line with a half note. The dynamic marking m.s. is placed above the vocal line in measure 11, and m.d. is placed below the piano accompaniment in measure 12. A fermata is placed over the vocal line in measure 12.

Musical score for measures 13 and 14. The system consists of three staves. Measure 13 features a vocal line with a half note and a piano accompaniment of eighth-note chords. Measure 14 continues the piano accompaniment and features a vocal line with a half note. The dynamic marking m.s. is placed above the vocal line in measure 13, and m.d. is placed below the piano accompaniment in measure 14. A fermata is placed over the vocal line in measure 14.

15

più pp

cédez - - - - //

mouvement

18

pp

Sva - - - - -

un peu en dehors

20

Sya -----

22 pp

Musical score for measures 22 and 23. Measure 22 features a piano (pp) dynamic. The music consists of chords in the right hand and single notes in the left hand, both in a key with one sharp (F#).

24 pp

6

Musical score for measures 24 and 25. Measure 24 has a piano (pp) dynamic. The right hand has a melodic line with a key signature change to two flats (Bb). The left hand has a bass line with a 6-measure rest in the first measure.

25 4 3

Musical score for measures 25 and 26. Measure 25 has a 4-measure rest in the right hand. Measure 26 has a 3-measure rest in the right hand. The left hand continues with a bass line.

27 4 6 6 2 m.d.

Musical score for measures 27 through 30. Measure 27 has a 4-measure rest in the right hand. Measures 28 and 29 have 6-measure rests in the right hand. Measure 30 has a 2-measure rest in the right hand and a m.d. (mezzo-forte) dynamic. The left hand continues with a bass line.

8^{va} - - - - -

29 f p 3 4

30 f p 3 4

un peu retenu

31 p 17 4

32 17

33 p 17 2

34 17

35 p 17

36 17

36

17

17 mouvement

37

pp

40

41

* Sost. Ped

...*

cédez - - //

mouvement

en retenant et en s'effaçant

41 p un peu marqué

pp

Musical score for measures 44-46. The score is written for piano in three staves (treble, middle, and bass clefs). Measure 44 starts with a treble clef and a key signature of two flats. The music features a melodic line in the treble and a bass line in the bass clef. A dashed line below the bass clef indicates a sub-octave extension, labeled "(Sub)".

Musical score for measures 47-49. The score is written for piano in three staves. Measure 47 features a prominent sixteenth-note figure in the treble clef, marked with a "6". The music continues with complex textures in all three staves, including a large slur over the top staff.

presque plus rien - - - - -

Musical score for measures 50-52. The score is written for piano in three staves. Measure 50 features a treble clef and a key signature of two flats. The music includes a large slur over the top staff and a fermata over the final measure (52).

(... brouillards)

II

Inspired by the fallen leaves of autumn, there are three theories regarding the prelude's genesis: poems by either Georges Turpin or his close friend Gabriel Mourey, or the souvenir of an autumn walk with Emma Bardac, his wife. An evocative work with sensuous harmonies and an exalted but restrained climax. These evocative lines by the composer in 1901 accurately describe his innermost reflections on the season:

I had tarried in autumn-filled country forcibly restrained by the enchantment of ancient forests. In tribute to gloriously agonised trees, golden leaves were falling, and as the frail Angelus bade fields take their sleep, arose a sweet persuasive voice that counselled complete oblivion.*

— Debussy

The soft, slow whirling of leaves which settle noiselessly on the soil; the disconsolate splendour of an autumnal sunset which seems to bear all the emotions of a long and sad farewell.

— Cortot

Falling leaves are a signal of the suspension of life, creating a static expectancy, intense regrets of a past now so far gone, of great sadness and the poignant melancholy of autumn.

— E. Robert Schmitz

This rite of autumn is a lament that creates a mood of regret and the poignant melancholy of fall — a contemplation of slowly falling leaves.

— Maurice Hinson

'Feuilles Mortes' conveys a precise seasonal image, but for the French, the phrase also means the colour russet. 'Feuilles' also refers to the leaves of a book, giving the title yet another dimension. The delicate but firm structure is endowed with harmonies of delicate and surpassing beauty, even more so than in 'Jeux'. Everything here is based on the initial chords, typically Ravelian, of the root-augmented sixth and fifth. There is not a single non-harmonic tone that is not the distilled quintessence of a supremely concentrated harmonic thought, and yet the tonal structure is articulated around a rigorously classical ternary form, with a middle based on the dominant and sub-dominant of the principal tone. In contrast to the atonality of 'Brouillards', 'Feuilles Mortes' is an example of an inordinately broadened tonality. The rhythmic subtlety contributes to the painful splendour of this haunting autumnal vision, this 'sweet rot', as pianist Marguerite Long puts it, through which Debussy has expressed his anguished dread of death, or simply of time passing.

— Paul Roberts

Another of Debussy's supreme masterpieces. The delicate but solid structure of this work is wreathed in harmonies of an almost unbearable beauty and refinement. The rhythmic subtlety contributes to the bitter, sad splendour of the throbbing autumnal scene, in which Debussy expressed all his anguished obsession with the passing of time and with death.

— Harry Halbreich

* Compline bell summoning the faithful to evening prayer; I hear it's cracked tones tolling in the distance — grêle literally means 'weak and high-pitched'

Duration: 3'20

- phrasing, dynamics and accentuation are not a strict copy from any particular source
- 4-24 & 36-40 presented with a blank key signature
- 44-52 presented with modified key signatures
- 48 editorial sostenuto pedal
- 50 similar to 41-43, Debussy is decidedly particular in the length of the bass which creates a deliberately autumnal cadence, although many pianists allow the tonic to linger for another beat or two

MONET LE CHÊNE DE BODMER (DETAIL) 1865

lent et mélancolique

II

3 pp

douxement soutenu et très expressif

p

p

Musical score for measures 12-16. The piece is in G major (one sharp). Measure 12 starts with a piano (p) dynamic. The first system (measures 12-13) features a piano (pp) melodic line in the right hand and a piano (p) accompaniment in the left hand. The second system (measures 14-15) continues with piano (pp) dynamics. Measure 16 begins a new section with a piano (p) dynamic and a melodic line marked m.s. (mezza voce).

un peu plus allant et plus gravement expressif

Musical score for measures 17-20. Measure 17 features a melodic line in the bass clef with fingering 3 and 5. Measure 18 has a melodic line in the bass clef with fingering 2. Measure 19 has a melodic line in the bass clef with fingering 2. Measure 20 has a melodic line in the bass clef with fingering 2. The dynamics are piano (pp) and m.s. (mezza voce).

Musical score for measures 21-24. Measure 21 starts with a piano (p) dynamic. The first system (measures 21-22) features a piano (p) melodic line in the right hand and a piano (p) accompaniment in the left hand. The second system (measures 23-24) continues with piano (p) dynamics. The word simile is written below the first system.

Musical score for measures 25-28. Measure 25 starts with a piano (ppp) dynamic. The first system (measures 25-26) features a piano (ppp) melodic line in the right hand and a piano (ppp) accompaniment in the left hand. The second system (measures 27-28) continues with piano (ppp) dynamics. The phrase un peu en dehors is written above the first system. The word pp is written below the first system.

plus lent

Musical score for measures 29-32. The score is in G major (one sharp) and 3/4 time. Measure 29 features a treble clef with a series of chords and a bass clef with sustained chords. Measure 30 has a treble clef with a ppp dynamic and a bass clef with a ppp dynamic. Measure 31 has a treble clef with a p marqué dynamic and a bass clef with a ppp dynamic. Measure 32 has a treble clef with a mf en dehors dynamic and a bass clef with a ppp dynamic. The right hand in measure 32 includes a triplet of eighth notes.

Musical score for measures 33-36. The score is in G major (one sharp) and 3/4 time. Measure 33 has a treble clef with a ppp dynamic and a bass clef with a ppp dynamic. Measure 34 has a treble clef with a p marqué dynamic and a bass clef with a ppp dynamic. Measure 35 has a treble clef with a mf dynamic and a bass clef with a p dynamic. Measure 36 has a treble clef with a mf dynamic and a bass clef with a mf dynamic. The right hand in measure 35 includes a triplet of eighth notes.

cédez - - - - //

Musical score for measures 37-40. The score is in G major (one sharp) and 3/4 time. Measure 37 has a treble clef with a p dynamic and a bass clef with a pp dynamic. Measure 38 has a treble clef with a p dynamic and a bass clef with a pp dynamic. Measure 39 has a treble clef with a p dynamic and a bass clef with a pp dynamic. Measure 40 has a treble clef with a p dynamic and a bass clef with a pp dynamic. The right hand in measures 37-40 includes a triplet of eighth notes.

mouvement (dans le sentiment du début)

41 3 pp pp

Sub - - -

45 2 3 pp lointain p

Sub - - -

* Sost. Ped

49 p ppp m.d. *

(Sub) - - -

(... feuilles mortes)

III

A postcard from Manuel de Falla of the picturesque Moorish Alhambra 'Wine Gate' in Granada provided the subtitle for this prelude. Debussy was often inspired by southern Spain* and La Puerta del Vino reflects the typical violent passion that Andalusian music often evokes — his instructions make this absolutely clear: 'avec de brusques oppositions d'extrême violence et de passionnée douceur'. Expressing conflicting violence and passion, and often imitating the guitar, the habanera is full of gorgeous themes at once mysteriously exotic, sensual and seductive, and I particularly love the totally original and deeply felt central chordal progression. (35 to 41).

This is not a genre scene, as some have said, with majas dancing in a low dive; rather, it is another leaf from Debussy's book of solitude. Debussy wrote at the head of the piece: 'With sudden oppositions of extreme violence and passionate softness', and his hot and pungent sonorities — red ochre, burnt sienna, raw umber — set to an obsessive habanera rhythm drew from pianist Marguerite Long the following exclamation: 'It sounds like aural tannin!'. Once again, audacities of musical language occur within a formal and tonal framework of a highly effective sparsity: the summit of 'Spanish Debussy', turns out to be much closer to García Lorca's Andalusia than to the clichés of folklore.

— Harry Halbreich

Once again, Spaniards are heard to be following two streams of thought simultaneously, leading to sudden explosions in the midst of quiet, contemplative passages. The two-note drum pattern, heard from the third bar, stays anchored on a low D flat for almost half the piece until 44 when it suddenly swoops down to a B flat; did Ravel remember this when writing Boléro fifteen years later? Finally the D flat returns and resists increasingly half-hearted attempts to dislodge it.

— Roger Nichols

CRISTINA DIAZ LA PUERTA DEL VINO

The opening in D flat provides continuity as well as a dramatic and violent invasion of the silence following Feuilles mortes. The instruction at the head of the piece, perfectly captures the fluctuating moods of Flamenco. Performers should inscribe it on their hearts.

— Paul Roberts

An impassioned and popular image set in a Spanish faubourg; a disreputable inn where muleteers hang out, and with coarse voices and dry hand clapping animate the petulant and sensual dance of a dark-haired beauty. Debussy had been so struck by the intense contrast of light and shade that he immediately undertook its transposition to music — "I'll do something with this", he said.

— Cortot

* Lindaraja (1901), Soirée dans Grenade (1903), and La Sérénade Interrompue (1909)

 A contradance originally from Havana (thus habanera) which travelled to Europe via Spain, becoming popular at the end of the 19th century.

Duration: 3'35

- 38 the autograph gives B $\flat\flat$ in the 2nd and 4th RH chords. Some editions and recordings omit the double flats.
- 50-51 upper voice enlarged font

mouvement de habanera avec de brusques oppositions d'extrême violence et de passionnée douceur

III

f âpre

f

f

p

f

p p très expressif

pp

simile

3

3

2 -5

6

3

p

13

Musical score for measures 16-18. The piece is in a key with three flats (B-flat major or D-flat minor) and a 3/4 time signature. Measure 16 features a melodic line in the right hand starting with a half note, followed by a sixteenth-note triplet. Measure 17 contains a sixteenth-note triplet in the right hand and a bass line with eighth notes. Measure 18 continues the bass line. Dynamics include p and molto diminuendo. Fingerings 1 and 4 are indicated for the first two notes of the triplet in measure 17. A slur covers the first two notes of the triplet in measure 16.

Musical score for measures 19-22. Measure 19 has a pp dynamic in the bass line. Measure 20 features a ff dynamic in the right hand. Measure 21 has a pp dynamic in the bass line. Measure 22 continues the bass line. The right hand has a melodic line with a slur and a fermata in measure 20.

Musical score for measures 23-26. Measure 23 has a p dynamic in the bass line with a triplet. Measure 24 is marked rubato and pp, featuring a triplet in the right hand. Measure 25 continues the pp dynamic in the right hand. Measure 26 continues the bass line. The right hand has a melodic line with a slur and a fermata in measure 24.

27

p più p pp

31 p marqué pp sempre

1 2 3 3 5 4

35 p p mf

*

39

p

au mouvement

passionnément

42 f âpre

f

ff

ff

3 46 mf

50 p ironique

*

3

53

p

p

p gracieux

4

Musical score for measures 57-60. The piece is in a key with three flats (B-flat major or D-flat minor) and a 3/4 time signature. Measure 57 features a complex chordal texture with a triplet of eighth notes in the bass and a group of sixteenth notes in the treble. Measure 58 begins with a pp dynamic marking. The bass line consists of a steady eighth-note pattern, while the treble line has a melodic line with some grace notes. Measure 59 continues the eighth-note bass line and the melodic treble line. Measure 60 concludes the section with a final chord in the treble and a sustained bass note.

en retenant

Musical score for measures 60-65. The piece continues in the same key and time signature. Measure 60 shows a change in the bass line with a dotted quarter note followed by an eighth note. Measure 61 features a p dynamic marking. The bass line has a dotted quarter note followed by an eighth note, with a tenuto mark over the eighth note. Measure 62 continues this pattern. Measure 63 features a più p dynamic marking. The bass line has a dotted quarter note followed by an eighth note, with a tenuto mark over the eighth note. Measure 64 continues the pattern. Measure 65 concludes the section with a final chord in the treble and a sustained bass note.

au mouvement

Musical score for measures 65-70. The piece continues in the same key and time signature. Measure 65 features a pp dynamic marking. The bass line has a dotted quarter note followed by an eighth note, with a tenuto mark over the eighth note. Measure 66 continues this pattern. Measure 67 features a simile marking. The bass line has a dotted quarter note followed by an eighth note, with a tenuto mark over the eighth note. Measure 68 continues the pattern. Measure 69 features a triplet of eighth notes in the treble. Measure 70 concludes the section with a final chord in the treble and a sustained bass note.

Musical score for measures 70-74. The piece continues in the same key and time signature. Measure 70 features a triplet of eighth notes in the treble. Measure 71 continues the triplet. Measure 72 features a triplet of eighth notes in the treble. Measure 73 features a triplet of eighth notes in the treble. Measure 74 concludes the section with a final chord in the treble and a sustained bass note.

editorial ossia

74 molto diminuendo - - - - -

77

pp mp

pp

un peu retardé lointain

pp

81

pp

pp

au mouvement

85 ff

m.s.

m.d.

p

pp

(... la puerta del vino)

IV

In 1912 Debussy visited an exhibition in Paris of the famous book illustrator, Arthur Rackham; Fairies are Exquisite Dancers is based on one his engravings for Peter Pan, a book which had been offered to his daughter Chouchou the previous Christmas. Notice especially the bespectacled spider playing the double bass and a grasshopper the clarinet to accompany the fairy's magical dance, balancing on silk that must have been particularly strong!

After a charming, capricious and ephemeral introduction with diaphanous textures, spidery broken chords, trills and tremolos, the contrasting central section is a waltz, both expressive and rubato. At 71 this soft and dreamlike section is truly Scriabinesque with a Brahms waltz quotation from opus 39 N° 15, and the final bars feature a brief reference to Weber's Oberon.

A scherzo, marvellous in its delicacy, with rhythms and sonorities as elusive as the unreal beings they evoke, unfolding in a charmingly unsettled harmonic atmosphere: the bitonal opposition between the two hands, the right on the black keys, the left on the white. After the dance of these dream creatures, which pianist Marguerite Long called 'the capricious daughters of the nymphs of l'Après-Midi d'un Faune, we hear their song. The piece then concludes with a dreamy quotation of the horn in Weber's Oberon, here a mysterious epilogue from the King of the Fairies, and not an active presence as in 'La danse de Puck'. Rackham's drawing centres around a spider's web, and Debussy's music is likewise seemingly insubstantial but strongly constructed. Amid the fairies' quicksilver antics they find time in the central section to indulge in a waltz.

— Harry Halbreich

A charming fantasy of aerial virtuosity, a lightweight flight of ethereal images, an ephemeral interplay of reflections, a spirited dancing flame, a swirling circle of smoke, everything that might dissolve from the air's caress and in the joy of light.

— Cortot

A miniature masterpiece of descriptive music. These strong ties to former styles suggest that Debussy, a composer credited with breaking new ground, is in many ways continuing and expanding upon the Romantic tradition.

— Michael Clark

Duration: 3'20 (There is a beautiful studio recording in which Horowitz takes 3'10)

ARTHUR RACKHAM

FAIRIES ARE EXQUISITE DANCERS

• editorial reduced font

- the opening with minimum pedal is particularly effective
- 13-14 a practical solution... if Debussy's septuplets prove impossible
- 16 G♯ missing — probable misprints
- 24-29 sostenuto pedal editorial suggestion, just capturing the initial bass A♭
- 30 G♯ missing — a probable misprint
- 48-49 presented in 3/4
- 107-110 presented in 3/4
- 110-115 editorial pedal suggestions

rapide et léger

IV

pp * m.d.

m.s.

m.d. m.s. sotto p marqué

sempre leggerissimo

m.d. m.d. m.d.

m.d. p m.s.

tr tr tr tr tr tr

13 pp tr tr tr tr tr tr m.d. p m.s.

16 m.s. p m.d. m.s. sotto

18 pp p pp

21 rubato

Sva - - - - -

24 mf

p

p

Sost. Ped *

1

5 premier mouvement

cédez - - - - - //

28

pp

m.s.

m.d.

m.s.

3

3

4

5

..*..

sans rigueur

32

4

5

3

4

5

3 a tempo

36 p expressif

pp

m.s.

p

2

7

7 retenu - - - - - // mouvement

40 p m.s. p p

44 m.s. mf mf p

cédez - - - - - //

48 p m.s. mf p m.s. mf

rubato - - - - - // mouvement

50 più p m.s. m.s. m.s.

cédez - - - // mouvement

54 pp
m.d.

55 p expressif
m.s.

56 sotto

57 m.s.

58 mf
m.s.

59 m.d. sotto
mf

60 mf

61 mf

62 m.s.
m.d.

63 m.s. sopra

64 diminuendo molto

cédez //

mouvement (caressant)

65 p
léger

66

67

68 en retenant

69 mf tr m.d. m.s. sfz p più p doux et rêveur

74 tr marqué pp un peu en dehors

79 serrez - - - - - // au mouvement (en retenant)

84 tr m.d. m.s. sfz sfz sfz

Musical score for measures 88-93. The system includes a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The piano part features a complex texture with chords and arpeggios. Dynamics include p, pp, marqué, and pp. A trill (tr) is marked in the vocal line at the end of measure 93. A wavy line above the staff indicates a tremolo effect.

Musical score for measures 94-98. The system includes a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The piano part features a complex texture with chords and arpeggios. Dynamics include pp. A wavy line above the staff indicates a tremolo effect.

mouvement

Musical score for measures 99-101. The system includes a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The piano part features a complex texture with chords and arpeggios. Dynamics include pp.

Musical score for measures 102-104. The system includes a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The piano part features a complex texture with chords and arpeggios. Dynamics include pp, m.d., and m.s.

105 pp

107 pp

108 pp

110 pp

111 pp Red. P

Sva

più pp

116 pp m.d.

m.s.

(... "les fées sont d'exquises danseuses")

As if by magic, we are transported to heather covered heathland with a piece much reminiscent of la Fille aux Cheveux de Lin from book one. Nature and innocence demand a spontaneous and laidback approach to those delicate and poetic riffs to match the colour and aroma of fragrant purple shrubs. Birds may be heard calling, accompanied by the distant refrain of a shepherd's flute in this harmonious and homogeneous prelude — an admirable contrast to numbers IV and VI.

In direct connection with this prelude, Marguerite Long mentions a Debussy souvenir pairing the scent of sea mist and coastal pines, and if she is correct this would take us to Arcachon in south west France. It is possible that the young composer first went there in 1880 with the baroness Nadejda Von Meck and later in 1904 when he stayed with the uncle of Emma Bardac (née Moyse), his future bride.

The pastoral and familiar poetry of a woodland scene where the earth's pervasive scent mingles with the subdued display of patches in purple.

— Cortot

A peaceful melody on a shepherd's pipe, resonating on the silent moorland. With its Celtic pentatonic structure it shows that this shepherd is a distant cousin of 'la fille aux cheveux de lin'. The same calm, the same purity and the same diatonic transparency, time-signature and tempo provide a clear link.

— Harry Halbreich

Duration: 3 minutes

- editorial suggestions for the sostenuto pedal
- phrasing, dynamics and accentuation are not a strict copy from any particular source
- the only prelude from book two with a metronome speed (identical to La Fille aux Cheveux de Lin) — ♩ = 60 is perhaps more realistic
- 4 originally a minim — a possible error
- 14 alto C (including B♭ if necessary) replaced silently by the LH thumb allows a pedal change at the 2nd beat
- 15-17 editorial modification of barlines and time-signature
- 16 A♭ originally equal to a minim — a possible error
- 19-22 presented in D♭
- 33 consistent with 23 etc.

GASTON ANGLADE LES CAMPAGNES DE BRUYÈRES

calme — doucement expressif ♩^{*} = 66

V

3 p

1 1 2 *

4 p

mf

3

* Sost. Ped

8 p

3

3

Musical score for measures 10-11. The piece is in a key with three flats (B-flat major or D-flat minor) and a 3/4 time signature. Measure 10 features a melody in the right hand with triplets and a dynamic marking of mf. The left hand provides harmonic support with chords and single notes. Measure 11 continues the melodic line with more triplets and a final triplet of eighth notes.

Sost. Ped

Musical score for measures 12-13. Measure 12 begins with a dynamic marking of p and features a melodic line with triplets and a bass line with a triplet of eighth notes. Measure 13 contains a triplet of eighth notes in the right hand, marked with an asterisk (*), and a dynamic marking of p. The left hand continues with chords and single notes.

Musical score for measures 14-15. Measure 14 features a melodic line with triplets and a dynamic marking of piu p, marked with an asterisk (*). The left hand has chords and single notes. Measure 15 continues the melodic line with triplets and a dynamic marking of pp, marked with an asterisk (*). The left hand has chords and single notes.

Musical score for measures 16-17. Measure 16 features a melodic line with triplets and a dynamic marking of pp doux et léger, marked with an asterisk (*). The left hand has chords and single notes. Measure 17 continues the melodic line with triplets and a dynamic marking of pp, marked with an asterisk (*). The left hand has chords and single notes.

21 p

editorial ossia

Sost. Ped

This system contains measures 21 through 25. The right hand features a melodic line with slurs and fingerings (1, 4, 5). The left hand has a bass line with chords and a 'Sost. Ped' instruction. An 'editorial ossia' bracket is present over measures 22-24.

un peu animé

23 p joyeux

p

This system contains measures 23 through 25. The right hand has a melodic line with triplets and slurs. The left hand has a bass line with chords. The tempo marking 'un peu animé' and dynamic 'p joyeux' are present.

26

expressif

This system contains measures 26 through 28. The right hand has a complex melodic line with many slurs and fingerings. The left hand has a bass line with chords. The dynamic 'expressif' is present.

29 p doux

3

This system contains measures 29 through 31. The right hand has a melodic line with slurs and fingerings. The left hand has a bass line with chords. The dynamic 'p doux' and a triplet '3' are present.

Musical score for measures 31-35. The piece is in B-flat major (two flats). Measure 31 starts with a piano (p) dynamic and a doux marking. The right hand features a triplet of eighth notes. Measure 32 continues with a triplet of eighth notes. Measure 33 has a piano (p) dynamic. Measure 34 has a più p marking. Measure 35 ends with a triplet of eighth notes. The bass line consists of sustained chords.

Musical score for measures 33-35. Measure 33 starts with a piano (p) dynamic. Measure 34 has a più p marking. Measure 35 ends with a triplet of eighth notes. The bass line consists of sustained chords.

cédez - - - - //

Musical score for measures 36-38. Measure 36 starts with a piano (p) dynamic. Measure 37 has a triplet of eighth notes. Measure 38 has a mf marking. The right hand features a triplet of eighth notes. The bass line consists of sustained chords.

au mouvement

Musical score for measures 38-41. Measure 38 starts with a mezzo-forte (mf) dynamic. Measure 39 has a triplet of eighth notes. Measure 40 has a triplet of eighth notes. Measure 41 has a triplet of eighth notes. The right hand features a triplet of eighth notes. The bass line consists of sustained chords.

Sost. Ped

Musical score for measures 41-42. Measure 41 features a treble clef with a melodic line starting on a triplet of eighth notes, marked mf. The bass clef has a sustained chord. Measure 42 continues the melodic line in the treble and has a single eighth note in the bass. A Sost. Ped instruction is at the bottom.

Sost. Ped

Musical score for measures 43-44. Measure 43 has a treble clef with a sustained chord and a bass clef with a melodic line. Measure 44 features a treble clef with a melodic line starting on a quintuplet of eighth notes, marked doux and p. The bass clef has a sustained chord. A Sost. Ped instruction is at the bottom.

doux

p

Musical score for measures 45-46. Measure 45 has a treble clef with a melodic line marked en retenant and a bass clef with a sustained chord. Measure 46 has a treble clef with a melodic line marked più p and a bass clef with a sustained chord. A p doucement soutenu instruction is in the middle.

en retenant

più p p doucement soutenu

m.d.

Sost. Ped

Musical score for measures 47-49. Measure 47 has a bass clef with a sustained chord. Measure 48 has a bass clef with a melodic line marked pp. Measure 49 has a bass clef with a melodic line marked sans lourdeur. A Sost. Ped instruction is at the bottom.

sans lourdeur

(... bruyères)

Was there really an eccentric General Lavine? Yes and no. Edward La Vine was not a general but an American juggling clown, half tramp and half warrior, who appeared, even on stilts, at the Marigny Theatre in Paris around 1910, greatly entertaining Mr Debussy. It is quite difficult to play with deliberate errors of rhythm and notation, but that is necessary here to imitate Lavine's mischievous character and marionette-like gait — one moment strutting about and the next acting a buffoonish and eccentric general on parade with a slapstick vaudeville style, playing to the gallery. Notice that the composer's subtitle was carefully written in English and according to E Robert Schmidt — 'excentric'*.

Debussy demanded mechanical rigour in the performance of this piece, and insisted it must not be played too fast. This fosters an ironic precision of burlesque pantomime, the end and death of the romantic humoresque, abruptly interrupted by the steely spring of a pirouette. The piano's resonance evokes, with great precision, those of a jazz band: after strident trumpet calls at the opening, we can easily imagine a 'witty and discreet' dance melody played on the double bass or baritone saxophone. Note that for Debussy, F major is a comical key — also to be found in 'Hommage à S. Pickwick'.

— Harry Halbreich

"General Lavine" — excentric looks back to Minstrels, and was inspired by a popular manifestation, the American clown Ed Lavine who appeared at the Marigny Theatre in 1910 and 1912 and was billed as 'the man who has soldiered all his life'. His act included juggling on a tightrope and, according to some, playing the piano with his toes, an activity possibly mirrored in the low-lying main tune.

— Roger Nichols

The time signature of ragtime was usually two-four. In its least sophisticated style, the music was characterised by a strongly syncopated right-hand rhythm set against the left hand's march-like beat. This is the style Debussy reproduced unerringly in 'Golliwogg's Cake-walk' onto which he grafted his humorous sense of Chouchou's doll enacting the dance. Whether a true reflection of ragtime or not, this justly celebrated piece captures the irrepressible life of popular entertainment, of music hall and vaudeville, to which Debussy returned here and in 'Minstrels'.

— Paul Roberts

'The Billboard' 1908 New York theatrical magazine extract and a clown aux Folies-Bergère

The ironic fidelity and panache of a Toulouse-Lautrec; the same marionette seen so often at the Folies-Bergère, with his extra large overcoat and the vivid wound of his mouth, split by a smile of frozen rapture. And, above all, the clumsy hop of his gait in burlesque pantomime, complicated by premeditated accidents, broken suddenly by the prodigious steely spring of a pirouette.

— Cortot

General Lavine-eccentric has moments of sounding like a second-hand Minstrels, but varies the music-hall imagery and exaggerates the montage so entertainingly that it would be rank pedantry to object.

— Stephen Walsh

* a botanical term from Medieval Latin excentricus

Duration: 3'

- 31 editorial sostenuto pedal combined with the sustaining pedal
- 100-102 absence of slurs
- 103-106 For an unusual effect, Debussy writes the dotted crotchets to be held to the end of the bar, which is possible by replaying the tied notes silently and changing the pedal at the final quaver rest.

dans le style et le mouvement d'un Cake-Walk

VI

p sec

strident

f m.d.

m.s.

sff m.d.

p sopra

Sub

sff sec

spirituel et discret

p

pp

pp sff

f

sff sec

m.d.

m.s.

The musical score is divided into several systems. The first system (measures 1-4) features a piano accompaniment with a 'strident' character, marked with f m.d. and m.s. (mezzo-soprano). The piano part includes a triplet of eighth notes. The second system (measures 5-8) shows a vocal line with sff m.d. dynamics and a piano accompaniment with p dynamics. The piano part includes a triplet of eighth notes. The third system (measures 9-12) is marked 'spirituel et discret' and features a piano accompaniment with p and pp dynamics. The piano part includes a triplet of eighth notes. The fourth system (measures 13-16) continues the piano accompaniment with pp dynamics and includes a vocal line with sff and f dynamics. The piano part includes a triplet of eighth notes.

Musical score for measures 19-22. The system consists of two staves. The upper staff (treble clef) features a melodic line with a sharp sign and a dynamic marking of p. The lower staff (bass clef) features a bass line with a dynamic marking of pp. The music is in a minor key and includes various articulations and phrasing slurs.

Musical score for measures 23-26. The system consists of two staves. The upper staff (treble clef) features a melodic line with various articulations and phrasing slurs. The lower staff (bass clef) features a bass line with various articulations and phrasing slurs.

Musical score for measures 27-30. The system consists of two staves. The upper staff (treble clef) features a melodic line with various articulations and phrasing slurs, including a triplet. The lower staff (bass clef) features a bass line with various articulations and phrasing slurs. The dynamic marking molto crescendo is present in the upper staff.

Musical score for measures 31-34. The system consists of two staves. The upper staff (treble clef) features a melodic line with various articulations and phrasing slurs, including a triplet. The lower staff (bass clef) features a bass line with various articulations and phrasing slurs. The dynamic marking f is present in the upper staff, and p and m.d. are present in the lower staff.

* Sost. Ped

...*

35

p

pp

39

p

43

f

m.s.

m.d.

traîné

ff

m.s.

p

47

p

mouvement

Measures 51-54. The piece is in a key with three flats (B-flat major or D-flat minor). Measure 51 starts with a forte (f) dynamic and features a complex chordal texture with sixteenth-note patterns. Measure 52 continues with similar textures. Measure 53 is marked p (piano) and shows a dynamic shift. Measure 54 is marked pp (pianissimo) and features a more sparse texture with a few notes.

Measures 55-58. Measure 55 is marked pp. Measures 56-58 feature a melodic line in the right hand with a traîné (trilled) effect, marked m.d. (mezza dolce) and ff (fortissimo) m.s. (mezza sostenuto). The left hand provides a simple harmonic accompaniment.

Measures 59-62. Measure 59 is marked p. Measures 60-62 feature a melodic line in the right hand with a p dynamic, and a bass line in the left hand with a p dynamic. The texture is more active than in the previous section.

Measures 63-66. Measure 63 is marked f. Measures 64-66 feature a melodic line in the right hand with a f dynamic, and a bass line in the left hand with a f dynamic. The texture is more active than in the previous section.

Measures 67-70. Measure 67 is marked ff and features a melodic line in the right hand with a très retenu (very sustained) effect, marked très retenu and ff. Measure 68 is marked f and features a melodic line in the right hand with a f dynamic. Measure 69 is marked f and features a melodic line in the right hand with a f dynamic. Measure 70 is marked f and features a melodic line in the right hand with a f dynamic. A triplet of eighth notes is indicated in measure 69.

mouvement

70 pp p pp

74 pp sf f sf sec

78 pp p pp

82

86 molto staccato molto crescendo

90 f Sost. Ped

91 f p

92 m.f.

93 m.d. p ..*..

94 très retenu p pp

95 pp

96 p

97 p

98 p pp

99 pp

100 f

101 p

102 f

103 ff

104 ff

105 ff

106 ff

107 ff

108 ff

109 ff sec

(... " General Lavine " – eccentric –)

VII

This rather obscure title (the Hall of Public Audience by moonlight) was discovered quite by chance in 1912 when the composer was reading an article by René Puaux in Le Temps. This is a lively account of a visit the writer made to the abandoned city of Amber, near Jaipur. Debussy was clearly stimulated by poetic descriptions of deserted palaces and a completely uninhabited city only recently crowded with chariots, elephants, ostlers and mahouts. Moments of exaltation evoke a distant land, shrouded in legend, saturated with exotic overtones — a subtly elusive and ethereal scene requiring great sensitivity. Bar 20 adds a rather Brahmsian dimension, recalling particularly his Intermezzo Op 118 N° 6 (1893), and 21-24 was possibly inspired by Alban Berg's sonata of 1910.

Stephen Walsh makes the point that the music might be regarded as a response to the activity of the imagination in the face of the beautiful but inexplicable relics of history. At first the eye sees and the ear hears only debris, musical fragments, then gradually some kind of picture materialises with a distinct shape, yet no clear connection with the fragments that preceded it. The visitor turns away moved by what he has seen, but still in truth mystified as to what precisely it was.

This prelude offers an illusory vision of India, but in contrast to the pentatonic 'Pagodes' from Estampes, it bears no trace of literal exoticism. Yet the piece, and its muted underlying tension, is indeed Oriental. (Perhaps a richer, more 'ripened' counterpart to 'Les sons et les parfums tournent dans l'air du soir' of Book I.) The beginning evokes, with gentle irony, the first notes of 'au clair de la lune', poeticised by the delicate harmonisation in sevenths. Then, via a musical language of great freedom and subtlety, Debussy delivers the most magical of his nocturnes. We hear for a moment the theme superimposed on its inversion, then the rest lights up brightly before the recapitulation, inverted and subtly varied in myriad ways, takes us back to the very cold and 'lunar' final suspended chord. This sublime piece, the finest of the twenty-four Preludes, profoundly influenced Olivier Messiaen.

— Harry Halbreich

LA TERRASSE DES AUDIENCES — DIWAN-E-AAM —
THE HALL OF PUBLIC AUDIENCE *

The great seventh prelude stands as the central pillar of the second book. Debussy's apprehension of eastern mysticism, his evocation of a palpable sensuality that moves from extreme delicacy to awe-inspiring grandeur, has all the intensity of a poem by Baudelaire. Pianistically, as well as imaginatively, 'la terrasse des audiences du clair de lune' is one of Debussy's most demanding pieces. The sensitivity of touch required for the filigree arabesque at the opening leaves the performer exposed, while the multiple gradations of voicing required for the chordal writing that follows, crucial to achieve a translucence as well as a depth of sonority, are among the most complex in his piano music.

— Paul Roberts

A somewhat arcane title, whose elaborate charm has the flowery grace of certain Chinese literary fantasies, reveals one of Debussy's most deeply musical and most enchantingly sensitive works. A brief quotation from the ever popular 'au clair de la lune', poetically harmonised with delicate sevenths, upon which settle lunar beams of a slow chromatic descent; the amorous infatuation of fragrant nights, and sensuous emotions.

— Cortot

* Amber Fort, Jaipur — important state assemblies were held here in the 17th and 18th centuries. The abundant stone pillars turn this space into an optical illusion. Beneath these intricately-designed arches, Kings used to meet with citizens seeking help.

Duration: 4'40

- There is a tendency to perform La Terrasse too slowly, feeling six quaver beats. The section from 39 to the end should be even slower, so it is sensible to keep something in reserve. A dotted crotchet pulse will save the work from inevitable dragging.
- editorial reduced font
- editorial sostenuto pedal
- 1-12 presented with a blank key signature (original in F# major)
- 6 According to the new Durand Edition, F# from the composer's personal copy. The autograph gives F#.
- 21-24 presented with a blank key signature
- 42-44 editorial pedal indications

Handwritten musical score for 'La Terrasse des Audiences du Clair de Lune' by Debussy, page VII. The score is written on ten staves, showing complex chordal textures and melodic lines. The title 'VII -' is at the top left, and 'Lune.' is written above the first staff. The manuscript includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings. A circular stamp on the right side reads 'CONSERVATOIRE DE PARIS'.

7 pp pp m.d. più pp p marqué m.s.
Sost. Ped

10 un peu animé léger pp m.s. sotto pp m.d.
Sub - - -

12 più pp m.d. m.s. au mouvement pp subito
Sub - - -

15 pp pp Sub - - - pp Sub - - - Sub - - -

18 m.d. [m.d.]

Sub - - -

en animant peu à peu

pp

20 p

21 *

p

p

p

8^{va} ----- cédez //

23

23 mouvement du début

8^{va} -----

pp subito p

25

25 en animant

(8^{va}) - - - 8^{va} - - -

poco crescendo

28

Musical score for measures 30-50. The score is written for piano with two staves. Measure 30 is marked with a forte f dynamic. The music features complex chordal textures and melodic lines. A section from measure 48 to 50 is enclosed in a large rectangular box. Below the first staff, there is a performance instruction:  Sost. Ped*. At the end of the boxed section, there is a decorative flourish consisting of three asterisks: .....

S^{va} -----

au mouvement

Musical score for measures 32-35. The score is written for piano with two staves. Measure 32 is marked with a pianissimo pp dynamic. The music features complex chordal textures and melodic lines. A section from measure 34 to 35 is enclosed in a large rectangular box. The score includes fingering numbers (3, 4, 5) and a fermata over a note in measure 35.

(S^{va}) -----

Musical score for measures 33-36. The score is written for piano with two staves. Measure 33 is marked with a pianissimo pp dynamic. The music features complex chordal textures and melodic lines. A section from measure 35 to 36 is enclosed in a large rectangular box. The score includes fingering numbers (1, 3, 5) and a fermata over a note in measure 36. The dynamic marking m.s. (mezzo-forte) is present in measure 36.

Musical score for measures 35-38. The score is written for piano with two staves. Measure 35 is marked with a pianissimo pp dynamic. The music features complex chordal textures and melodic lines. A section from measure 36 to 38 is enclosed in a large rectangular box. The score includes a fermata over a note in measure 38. The dynamic marking m.s. (mezzo-forte) is present in measure 38.

37 sempre pp

39 plus lent m.d. p

42 pp

* Red. Red.

44 timbrez légèrement la petite note

Red. Red.

(... la terrasse des audiences du clair de lune)

VIII

Whereas Ravel in Gaspard de la Nuit followed almost verse by verse the pattern of Aloysius Bertrand's fluid and sensual prose poem, Debussy was inspired by a mythical nordic romance — Undine by Friedrich Heinrich Karl de la Motte, Baron Fouqué. A 1909 English translation featured 15 illustrations by Arthur Rackham*, and these formed the basis for the prelude's fanciful take on the watery temptress, hauntingly irresistible and dangerous, who lures young men to their deaths. Can any phrase be more seductive than 46-47 ?

Marked scherzando, much of this tone poem is delicate, exquisite and mysterious, its sophisticated and capricious character achieved through subtlety of harmony and texture. The central section develops some tension with darker and deeper shades, underlining the sinister nature of the water nymph's powers of alluring enchantment. An ethereal version of Ondine which has become part of a rich legacy of aquatic subjects in the composer's catalogue.

This unjustly neglected sister of Ravel's 'Ondine' is a mischievous nymph — shimmering, naked, voluptuous — wandering in the waves before attempting to beguile a human being. She then dreams languidly on the sand, regretting she is not mortal; the middle section theme, with its clashing seconds, expresses melancholy, but after a quite classical ascent over a dominant pedal whose wicked harshness expresses her frustration, she disappears with a pirouette, flowing into the foam. Every virtuosic feature in 'Ondine' is part and parcel of the musical substance. The hexatonic scale — E flat F sharp G A B flat D flat — cunningly eases into the tonal context of D major.

— Harry Halbreich

This may have been inspired by Rackham's illustrations for De La Motte Fouqué's Undine which appeared in 1912. But it must also surely be heard as a riposte to Ravel's 'Ondine' from Gaspard de la nuit, published in 1909. Maybe Debussy, who distrusted prolixity and technical brilliance, was saying: 'I can do just as good a water nymph as you in fewer notes.'

— Roger Nichols

For those who know how to see her, drenched, alluring and naked from the waist, she emerges from the still shimmering of cradling waves. And, for those who know how to understand her, how tempting and tender she is, the hushed voice that describes the treasures of her floating palaces and the comfort of her love.

— Cortot

* les fées sont d'exquises danseuses (Book II N° 4) is another prelude inspired by a Rackham illustration for Peter Pan.

 Undine by F. H. C. de La Motte Fouqué (1909). The title refers either to l'enfance d'Ondine or to Ondine devant la fenêtre.

Duration: 3'45

- In this piece of particularly capricious tempi, it seems a good idea to take the basic tempo from bar 16.
- editorial reduced font
- 8-13 modified key-signatures
- 24 it can be more eloquent to play the tenor LH thumb a millisecond before the bass
- 49-64 editorial modification of key-signature
- 54-61 editorial re-beaming
- 60 A♯ tied (slurred) tenor quavers are probably an oversight
- 73 to achieve pp subito, an interesting effect can be obtained by silently replaying the final chord simultaneously removing the sustaining pedal

ARTHUR RACKHAM UNDINE **

scherzando

VIII

The musical score is written for a single instrument, likely a piano, in a key of two sharps (D major) and a 6/8 time signature. It consists of two systems of two staves each (treble and bass clef). The tempo is marked 'scherzando'. The score includes various dynamics such as pp, m.s., mf, and p. It features complex rhythmic patterns, including triplets and sixteenth-note runs, and uses slurs and phrasing marks to indicate musical structure. Measure numbers 4, 7, and 9 are clearly marked. The piece concludes with the instruction 'retenu' followed by a double bar line.

4

7

9

pp m.s. mf pp m.s. mf p m.s. pp retenu //

au mouvement

scintillant doux

11 12

rubato

13

10

5

1

au mouvement

Sra - - - - -

15

p

2

3

4

4

5

2

3

4 18

p

m.s.

9

1

p

à l'aise

20 p léger mf en dehors

22 p expressif

retenu

24 m.s.

mouvement

26 p 8va

scintillant doux

28

12 retenu - - - // mouvement

p en dehors

p

pp

30 p

34

p

36

38 pp

40 p

42 le double plus lent

rubato

un peu au-dessous du mouvement

44 pp murmurando

doucement marqué

46

Musical score for measures 48-49. The system consists of two staves: a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The key signature is three sharps (F#, C#, G#). Measure 48 is marked with a piano (pp) dynamic. Measure 49 is marked with a piano (pp) dynamic and contains an asterisk (*). Both measures feature a melodic line in the treble staff and a supporting bass line in the bass staff, with a long slur spanning across both measures.

Musical score for measures 50-51. The system consists of two staves: a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The key signature is three sharps (F#, C#, G#). Measure 50 is marked with a piano (pp) dynamic. Measure 51 is marked with a piano (pp) dynamic and contains an asterisk (*). Both measures feature a melodic line in the treble staff and a supporting bass line in the bass staff, with a long slur spanning across both measures.

Musical score for measures 52-53. The system consists of two staves: a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The key signature is three sharps (F#, C#, G#). Measure 52 is marked with a piano (pp) dynamic. Measure 53 is marked with a piano (pp) dynamic and contains an asterisk (*). Both measures feature a melodic line in the treble staff and a supporting bass line in the bass staff, with a long slur spanning across both measures.

54 mouvement pp simile

Musical score for measures 54-55. The system consists of two staves: a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The key signature is three sharps (F#, C#, G#). Measure 54 is marked with a piano (pp) dynamic and contains an asterisk (*). Measure 55 is marked with a piano (pp) dynamic and contains an asterisk (*). The tempo marking mouvement is placed above measure 54, and the dynamic marking simile is placed above measure 55. Both measures feature a melodic line in the treble staff and a supporting bass line in the bass staff, with a long slur spanning across both measures.

pp

56 simile

58

60 pp

62 pp subito m.d. m.s.

12

64

p aussi léger que possible

pp

8va - - ,

66 pp p pp

p. pp

8va - - ,

68 pp pp pp

p. pp

70 pp pp

p. m.d.

8va - - ,

m.s. * depress keys silently simultaneously removing the sustaining pedal

72 p pp

p. m.d.

[una corda]

(... Ondine)

IX

Throughout his career, Debussy found inspiration from many far-flung and exotic places but closer to home he often turned to England, its literature and art. He was an ardent anglophile, although apparently with a limited command of English, and hired a Miss Gibbs, an English governess as nanny for his daughter. Unlike a mere tourist he extended his passion to taking strong tea for breakfast, enjoying a glass of whisky (in the evening around 10) and reading our novels (in particular Dickens which he almost certainly read in French). The author was just 24 when he penned his first serialised work, The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club, in short — The Pickwick Papers.

Pickwick was the composer's 'best and oldest companion' fitting every mood, an infallible antidote and indefatigable healer for all ills, and irritability could be cured by a swift dose.

— René Peter *

For this observation I am indebted to John France: The title given by the composer includes the initials P.P.M.P.C. which are meant to stand for 'Perpetual Vice President Member Pickwick Club'. This club was created with 'the purpose of investigating the source of the Hampstead Ponds.' However as Maurice Hinson rightly observes, English was not Debussy's strong point as the initials are a little awry. A brief look at the

"I never heerd ... or read of in story-books, nor see in picters, any angel in tights and gaiters ... but ... he's a reg'lar thoroughbred angel for all that."

introductory chapter of the book reveals that it was Joseph Smiggers, Esq., who was P.V.P.M.P.C. and Samuel Pickwick, Esq., G.C.M.P.C 'General Chairman — Member Pickwick Club'.

Debussy gently mocks Dickens' likeable hero, who appropriately enters the scene to the strains of 'God Save the King'. At the call of the horn, his rickety jalopy sets off down the road. The alternation of timidity, absent-mindedness, and self-satisfaction portray the character and render the caustic affability of the sketch. The piece, with its timbres evoking the orchestra, is highly coloured: an example of Debussy's wry sense of humour.

— Harry Halbreich

It is not possible to conceive of a more spirited musical adaptation, not only of the character of Dickens's hero, but of his very style. His mordant goodwill, his delectable mischief, and every measure of this piece is a detail that counts, from the seriocomic 'God Save the King' to the jaunty whistling of the last page, while the music passes through alternations between absent-minded solemnity, timidity, and complacency which make up the humorous personality of Mr. Pickwick Esq.

— Cortot

Debussy rather admired English sangfroid but was not beyond giving it the occasional dig in the ribs, as here in his quotation of 'God Save the King'.

— Roger Nichols

A great Hokey Cokey of eccentrics, comen, phoney politicians, amorous widows and wily, witty servants, somehow catching an essence of what it is to be English, celebrating companionship, generosity, good nature, in the figure of Samuel Pickwick, Esq, one of the great embodiments in literature of benevolence.

— Simon Callow

Debussy was equal to the heavier, more picaresque comedy of Dickens, an author he adored. 'Hommage à S. Pickwick Esq. P.P.M.P.C.' is like a multi-frame picture postcard from London, starting with 'God Save the King' (Union Jack T-shirt) and proceeding through what might be a series of street scenes culminating in a whistled tune straight out of the mouth of Sam Weller.

— Stephen Walsh

* 1872-1947 writer, author of comedies, opera librettos. Benefactor and biographer of Debussy who wrote pertinently about their long and close collaboration.

Duration: 2'50

- phrasing, dynamics and accentuation are not a strict copy from any particular source

- grave in French probably infers pseudo solemnity and not the traditional Italian term meaning extremely slow. I suggest choosing a suitable whistling tempo for 44-48 and keeping to something similar for the opening national anthem

(i.e. andante)

Pickwick at the slide

- 21-25 editorial dotted barlines
- 44-46 editorial dotted barlines and modification of time-signature

*
grave

IX

3 f sonore

5 p crescendo molto
f

9 aimable
p expressif
p p peu à peu animé

simile

12 pp léger
1 4
2 2

15 p 1 2
p

Musical score for measures 18-20. The right hand features a melodic line with a crescendo leading to a fortissimo section. The left hand provides a simple accompaniment. The instruction crescendo molto is written above the right hand.

Musical score for measures 21-25. The right hand has a series of chords and a melodic line with accents. The left hand has a rhythmic accompaniment. The instruction retenu is written above the right hand. Dynamics include f, f m.d., and ff.

Musical score for measures 26-30. The right hand has a melodic line with triplets and sixteenth notes. The left hand has a simple accompaniment. The instruction [premier] mouvement is written above the right hand. Dynamics include pp léger, p, and pp.

Musical score for measures 29-30. The right hand has a melodic line with triplets and sixteenth notes. The left hand has a simple accompaniment. The instruction léger is written above the right hand. Dynamics include p and pp.

Musical score for measures 31-35. The right hand has a melodic line with triplets and sixteenth notes. The left hand has a simple accompaniment. The instruction animez un peu is written above the right hand. The dynamic pp is written below the right hand.

Musical score for measures 33-34. The piece is in B-flat major (two flats). Measure 33 starts with a piano (p) dynamic. The right hand plays a sequence of eighth notes with a dotted quarter note, while the left hand plays a bass line of eighth notes. A slur covers both hands across measures 33 and 34.

Musical score for measures 35-36. The piece is in B-flat major. Measure 35 starts with a piano (p) dynamic and a crescendo molto instruction. The right hand features complex chordal textures with fingerings 5, 4, 5, 4, 5, 4, 5, 4, 5, 4, 5, 4, 5, 4, 5, 4, 5, 4. The left hand plays a bass line with fingerings 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4. A slur covers both hands across measures 35 and 36.

Musical score for measures 37-38. The piece is in B-flat major. Measure 37 starts with a forte (f) dynamic. The right hand plays a sequence of chords with fingerings 5, 1, 5, 1, 5, 1, 5, 1, 5, 1, 5, 1, 5, 1, 5, 1, 5, 1. The left hand plays a bass line with fingerings 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1. A slur covers both hands across measures 37 and 38.

Musical score for measures 39-40. The piece is in B-flat major. Measure 39 starts with a più f dynamic. The right hand plays a sequence of chords with fingerings 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1. The left hand plays a bass line with fingerings 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1. A slur covers both hands across measures 39 and 40.

[premier] mouvement

41 p

même mouvement

44 pp
lointain et léger

47 sfz p pp

mouvement — retenu

49 mf f

52 m.d. mf f ff p

(... hommage à S. Pickwick Esq. P.P.M.P.C.)

A prelude inspired by Egyptology and suffused with ambiguity. Hallowed tombs beckon with the mystery of pyramids, our distant deceased, mummification, burial rites and urns. As with Danseurs de Delphes (book I) we are drawn back in time to contemplate art from bygone civilisations. While the after-title conjures a precise image, very little is known about the genesis of this prelude. We can only speculate on its meaning and enjoy the unusual interconnection of its suitably symbolised classical harmony.

According to Paul Roberts, the subject is a far more subtle evocation of eastern music and ritual than Pagodes. Like other pieces with an oriental background it also expresses a delicate eroticism, which for Debussy's fin de siècle was all part of the asian myth. Debussy recalls the gamelan music that had so entranced him six years earlier (at the 1889 Universal Exposition), 'where tonic and dominant were no more than empty phantoms for the use of naughty children' — a comment of particular relevance to Canope, for in the closing measures tonic and dominant are made to appear as 'empty phantoms' by being telescoped together, hence undermining traditional tonal polarity. In his words — 'the vibrant beauty of sound itself' — resolution at the end is achieved not in the final chord, which in traditional terms remains unresolved, but in the silence that follows the fading of the sounds.

A closer precedent for this profoundly mysterious piece is the chord parallels that open Le Martyre de Saint Sébastien: the same solemn, stately tread, and something of the same tendency to suggest strangeness by breaking the natural sequence of these essentially very plain, uncomplicated chords. Reflecting upon the artist who created the original urn, with sorrowful solitude Debussy seals the canopic jar bringing vestiges of the past to the present.*

— Stephen Walsh

The meditative and gentle lines of this piece have the nobility and the stately form of the antique funerary urn which serves as a symbol. This harrowing and tender chant, through the wailing sound of a yearning flute, tells the eternal love of the adolescent soul whose secret torment sleeps in these light ashes with a slumber that cannot forget.

— Cortot

One of Debussy's most mysterious and enigmatic pieces, is also one of his most prophetic. The entire piece unfolds in a hieratic, strangely distant atmosphere, engendering a sensation of infinite solitude reinforced by a cadence that is not an ending — we remain suspended in the void. Once again, Debussy has fused space and time.

— Harry Halbreich

* used in sets of four by the ancient Egyptians as containers for the internal organs of embalmed bodies.

Duration: 3'15

- phrasing, dynamics and accentuation are not a strict copy from any particular source
- 8 editorial omission of left hand tied crotchet (see 10)
- 18 this version (which mirrors 20 & 22) is currently finding much favour
- 24 editorial pedal to create a "frisson of sound for its own sake, capturing with remarkable accuracy the jangling resonance of an oriental plucked instrument". (Paul Roberts The Piano Music of Debussy 2003)
- 30-33 editorial pedalling suggestions
- 33 The final 'sound' appears as a rest in the original score and of course should not be played. If one listens very attentively, without a pedal change, a tonic overtone becomes almost audible to complete the final canopic phrase, fading appropriately into silence.

très calme et doucement triste

X

pp p più p

cédez - - //

Detailed description: This system contains a single musical staff with a treble clef and a 4/4 time signature. It begins with a rest for one measure, followed by a series of chords and single notes. A long slur covers the first seven measures. The eighth measure has a fermata. The ninth measure is a whole note chord, and the tenth measure is a half note chord. The dynamic markings are pp (pianissimo) at the start, p (piano) above the eighth measure, and più p (pianissimo) below the ninth measure. The system concludes with the instruction "cédez - - //".

mouvement

pp p

Detailed description: This system is a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The first measure has a pp (pianissimo) dynamic. The second measure has a fermata. The third measure begins a triplet of eighth notes with a p (piano) dynamic. The fourth measure continues the triplet. The fifth measure has a fermata. The sixth measure has an asterisk (*) below it. The system ends with a fermata.

p p

Detailed description: This system is a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The first measure has a p (piano) dynamic. The second measure has a fermata. The third measure begins a triplet of eighth notes with a p dynamic. The fourth measure continues the triplet. The fifth measure has a fermata. The sixth measure has a p dynamic. The seventh measure has a fermata. The eighth measure has a p dynamic. The system ends with a fermata.

Musical score for measures 13-15. Measure 13 starts with a piano (p) dynamic. The right hand features a melodic line with fingerings 5, 4, 3, 4. The left hand provides harmonic accompaniment. Measures 14 and 15 continue the melodic and harmonic development.

Durand

Musical score for measures 16-19. Measure 16 begins with a mezzo-forte (m.s.) dynamic. Measure 17 includes the instruction "animez un peu" and a pianissimo (pp) dynamic. Measure 18 features a piano (p) dynamic with the marking "p marqué" and an asterisk (*). Measure 19 continues with a pianissimo (pp) dynamic. A small inset score shows a specific chord voicing.

Musical score for measures 20-22. Measure 20 starts with a piano (p) dynamic, marked "p marqué". Measure 21 continues with the same dynamic. Measure 22 concludes with a pianissimo (pp) dynamic. The left hand has a consistent accompaniment pattern throughout.

23 p m.f. pp p pp

* Ped. Ped.

premier mouvement

26 pp p retenu - - // più p

plus lent

très lent

30 très doux et très expressif encore plus doux *

pp più pp

Sost. Ped una corda

(... canope)

XI

As a youth on first listening to this piece, I found it somewhat elusive, and Durand's score seemed obscure and not easy to follow. Debussy was not new to the idea of writing on three staves* and often added one in this second book of preludes. For the most part the wider systems help to clearly perceive separate voicing and clarify complicated passages but for this work I long wondered how it would look on just one stave. In addition, as a consequence of the excessive number of barlines and lively speed, it was quite a challenge to memorise and keep track of the metre. And then I wondered how it would convert to 4 crotchet beats, thus making the phrasing more clear with the emergence of a few irregular bars. Here is the result of my efforts.

Number XI is the only prelude without a descriptive after-title and these admirable 'Alternating Thirds' are definitely unsexy. A particularly poetically motivated composer and master of language presents what appears to be a dry academic study. Perhaps he lacked time... or perhaps we should create our own extramusical image. I hear a Perpetuum Mobile with insects sotto voce and suggest 'la Guinguette des Cigales' (the Cicadas' Ball). The opening bars might represent the insect band tuning up (in thirds of course) and the lyrical central section a flirtation scene. I found this appropriate extract by the artist and poet Jules Breton:

*Dans les blés, cependant, d'intrépides cigales
Jetant leurs mille bruits, fanfare de l'été,
Ont frénétiquement et sans trêve agité
Leurs ailes sur l'airain de leurs folles cymbales.*

In the wheatfield, however, adventurous cicadas
Hurling a thousand calls in summer fanfare,
Have frantically and without respite beaten
Their wings on the carillon of their insane tymbals.

Just before sending the second volume to the publisher there was a problem over which preludes to include, and it was decided to abandon "Tomai des éléphants," (inspired by Kipling) and substitute les Tierces Alternées. If one transposes the opening bars they show some similarity to Gershwin's "I got Rhythm" published some 15 years later. The alternation may refer to the thirds (major and minor), hands, or moods and images, and there are several imaginative sudden changes of key, metre and colour.

With charming ingenuity, a technique borrowed from the harpsichord gives birth to this fantasy; a pretext not only for the enjoyment of pure sound, but for the feline grace of their physical creation. Debussy juggles with thirds, like a cat with a ball of wool, makes it bounce, sends it into a corner, then, after a moment of apparent indifference, with a sudden stroke of the paw plays with it once more.

— Cortot

*Debussy may be teasing us in the twenty-third prelude by asking us to guess the title. 'Bustling crowds on the Boulevard des Italiens'? 'The little train'? No; simply Les tierces alternées: 'alternating thirds'. Which they do without respite.*

— Roger Nichols

* his second book of Images and La Soirée dans Grenade (Estampes), Ravel la Vallée des Cloches, Gaspard de la Nuit and there are earlier romantic examples by Liszt and Schumann.

les Champs et la Mer*

Duration: 3'15

- phrasing, dynamics and accentuation are not a strict copy from any particular source
- stem directions indicate right or left
- originally 2 crotchet beats throughout
- 13 D# according to recent observation
- 23-40, 52-53, 60-61 editorial modification of key-signatures

modérément animé

p più p cédez - - - - //

XI

un peu plus animé légèrement détaché sans sécheresse

pp m.d. sotto

6

les notes marquées du signe — doucement timbrées

8

10

12 p

*

14

16 p sopra

18 pp subito

20 sotto

pp subito p poco a poco crescendo

22 *

24 f mf

26

29 f p f p

mol - to di - min - uendo - - - - -

31 sopra

33 pp sotto

35 sopra

37

39 pp subito

sotto

41

Musical notation for measures 41-42. The bass clef staff contains a series of chords with a melodic line above. Measure 41 has a 4-measure rest. Measure 42 has a 3-measure rest. The key signature has three sharps (F#, C#, G#).

43

Musical notation for measures 43-44. Measure 43 continues the bass clef pattern. Measure 44 has a 4-measure rest in the bass clef and a melodic line in the treble clef. Dynamics include p and più p. The key signature has three sharps.

doux et lié

pp

sopra

pp

Musical notation for measures 45-46. The treble clef staff features a melodic line with slurs and ornaments. Measure 45 has a 4-measure rest in the bass clef. Measure 46 has a 4-measure rest in the bass clef. Dynamics include pp. The key signature has three sharps.

51

Musical notation for measures 47-50. The treble clef staff features a melodic line with slurs and ornaments. Measure 47 has a 4-measure rest in the bass clef. Measure 48 has a 3-measure rest in the bass clef. Measure 49 has a 6-measure rest in the bass clef. Measure 50 has a 5-measure rest in the bass clef. Dynamics include pp and p. The key signature has three sharps.

retenu

gracieux

53 sotto

pp

Musical notation for measures 51-52. The treble clef staff features a melodic line with slurs and ornaments. Measure 51 has a 4-measure rest in the bass clef. Measure 52 has a 4-measure rest in the bass clef. Dynamics include p and pp. The key signature has three sharps.

56

Musical notation for measures 53-55. The treble clef staff features a melodic line with slurs and ornaments. Measure 53 has a 4-measure rest in the bass clef. Measure 54 has a 6-measure rest in the bass clef. Measure 55 has a 4-measure rest in the bass clef. Dynamics include p. The key signature has three sharps.

au mouvement

pp

58

Musical notation for measures 58-59. The piece is in 4/4 time with a key signature of two flats (B-flat and E-flat). The notation is in bass clef. Measure 58 features a series of chords with a descending bass line. Measure 59 continues this pattern with a final chord.

60 *

Musical notation for measures 60-63. Measure 60 is marked with an asterisk and features a dynamic marking of sfz (sforzando) with a crescendo hairpin. The notation includes fingerings (2, 3, 4, 5) and a slur over the first four notes. Measures 61-63 continue the sfz dynamic with similar chordal textures.

62

Musical notation for measures 62-65. Measure 62 is marked with a dynamic of pp (pianissimo). The notation is in bass clef for measures 62-63 and switches to treble clef for measures 64-65. The music consists of chordal textures with a steady bass line.

64

Musical notation for measures 64-67. The notation is in bass clef for measures 64-65 and treble clef for measures 66-67. It features a consistent chordal accompaniment with a descending bass line.

66

Musical notation for measures 66-69. The notation is in treble clef. Measures 66-67 are in the key of B-flat major, while measures 68-69 shift to E-flat major. The music features a steady chordal accompaniment.

68

Musical notation for measures 68-71. The notation is in treble clef. Measures 68-69 are in the key of B-flat major, and measures 70-71 shift to E-flat major. The music features a steady chordal accompaniment with a descending bass line.

70

72 poco crescendo mf

74 f molto diminuendo

75 p

77 pp più pp

79 sempre pp doux

(... les tierces alternées)

XII

The last of these 24 préludes is also the most technically challenging — fireworks over the Seine and fireworks at the keyboard. Debussy rarely tries to imitate Lisztian pyrotechnics but here he succeeds in writing a dazzling virtuoso display piece to end the collection. Bastille day revellers in Paris provide the backdrop for rockets, firecrackers, sparklers and explosions in the night sky, as the audience quietly waits in anticipation of a complex harmonic wonderworld of extreme dynamics and dissonance, giving voice to breathtaking light. The cadenza sounds as if it were inspired by Stravinsky and the prelude appropriately concludes with a soft and brief quotation from La Marseillaise in polyphony with a final utterance of the principal motif.

Brilliant and poetic, 'Feux d'artifice', the most extended piece of Book II, ends the collection in a shower of sparks and light. The graphic appearance of the score is Lisztian, with sequences of arpeggios, cadenzas and rare Debussyan octaves. At the outset, a confused rumbling suggests a faceless crowd, which then totally disappears. The final quotation of a hesitant and distant Marseillaise suggests a celebration for the 14 July. But as in Fêtes this ending is somewhat melancholic, as joy disappears and the playground is left deserted. Feux d'artifice is one of the most innovative works by Debussy — athenatic, atonal and static. Its almost formless structure does not depend on any tonality.

JAMES MCNEILL WHISTLER NOCTURNE IN BLACK AND GOLD — THE FALLING ROCKET *

— Harry Halbreich

Feux d'artifice brings us back to real life and to Paris. As Robert Schmitz reminds us: 'There is a well-established custom which prescribes that the last display shot off in a fireworks exhibit (le bouquet) should be the richest, most varied, most powerful one of the evening. Few are the connoisseurs who do not find a place on one of the many bridges over the River Seine on the evening of 14 July to witness sky and earth joined in this fiery interplay of pyrotechnics and reflections'. And as snatches of the Marseillaise fade into the distance, Debussy leaves us to ponder happily over all the marvels we have heard, and seen in our mind's eye.

— Roger Nichols

This last Prelude is a spellbinding evocation of virtuosity. Dormant smoke from Bengal Lights discharge solitary sparks, the sizzling of rockets, the slow parabola of plummeting stars, the hissing of Soleils, the dazzling bouquet of multicoloured fireworks, all that sparkles and brightly shines in the night, all the fairyland of lights is in this music. And, in the manner of an artist who with vanity adds a finishing touch to his canvas, in the final bars Debussy inserts a few notes from the Marseillaise, recalling popular poetry of bygone evenings on the 14th July.

— Cortot

Paul Roberts makes the point that 'Feux d'artifice' reminds us that Debussy could be a master of extroversion when he wished, and that pianistic brilliance is as much in his domain as are the shades of 'Canope'. He exploits harmonics and overtones which result in a sudden and exhilarating explosion of resonance (an appropriate allusion considering the title'). His purpose is to amaze and deceive us with wizardry, with compositional fireworks which may be said to allude to pianistic brilliance as well as to actual fireworks.

* Completed in 1875 — 'scatters stars through the impenetrable darkness of the night'. It is very probable that Debussy saw and admired this work exhibited in Paris around 1900; he was enchanted by the artist's pure style and seduced by the aesthetic of illusion, in which the exquisite becomes the evanescent.

Duration: 5'

- 1-16 I have reversed the hands for this tricky opening, thereby gaining a millisecond for the impending leaps, and enabling continuity of the accompaniment in 7 & 9
- 17 Black key glissandos can be painful... try using all four nails simultaneously (excluding the thumb); playing the first note with the left hand — the greater the nail angle, the louder it will sound. (See the article on glissando at the PPE website).
- 35-40 modified key-signature
- 37 LH accompaniment modified with editorial broken beams
- 38 the 5/8 time signature is a probable misprint
- 42-43 grace notes should probably be played before the beat
- 44 1st beat time values rectified
- 52 with some possible confusion the LH was presented in dotted semiquavers
- 61-64 these pianissimo glissandos will respond to the technique described at 17
- 76-80 the final LH demisemiquaver (diamond notehead) can be omitted
- 83 a new time signature is mysteriously missing here, and the value of the unique rest seems inaccurate
- 86 2/8 seems unlikely — compare with 72
- 98 by slightly delaying the final treble Marseillaise E, it is possible to keep the bass tremolo going without interruption

modérément animé

XII

*
m.d. 6
pp
m.s.

léger, égal et lointain

3

S^{va} - -
 5 marqué

sopra 7 pp marqué

Sva - -

9 10

Sva - - - - -

11 sempre pp

12 en se rapprochant peu à peu

Sva - - - - -

13

14

Sva - - - - -

15 molto crescendo

16

(S_{va})-----

m.s. m.d.

ff *

right hand glissando

30 p

più p

20 pp sempre staccato

6

22 cre - - - - -

23

S_{va}-----

scen - - - - - do - - - - -

25

(S_{va})-----

f

14 m.d. sotto

m.s. m.s.

S_{va}-----

S_{va}-----

(8va)-----

27

f

très en dehors

(8va)-----

29

f

30

ff

10

8va-----

31

f

(S^{va})-----

32

Musical notation for system 32. The vocal line (treble clef) features a long slur over a series of eighth notes. The piano accompaniment (bass clef) consists of a steady eighth-note pattern. The system ends with a 4/8 time signature.

33

Musical notation for system 33. The vocal line has slurs and dynamics markings: p (piano) and p (piano). The piano accompaniment includes a marking m.d. (mezza voce) under a specific note. The system ends with a 4/8 time signature.

34

Musical notation for system 34. The vocal line has slurs and dynamics markings: p (piano) and più p (piano). The piano accompaniment includes a marking (h) under a note. The system ends with a 4/8 time signature.

35

Musical notation for system 35. The vocal line starts with a forte (f) dynamic. The piano accompaniment has a marking  and a number 15. The system ends with a 4/8 time signature.

36

Musical notation for system 36. The vocal line starts with a forte (f) dynamic. The piano accompaniment has a marking 4. The system ends with a 4/8 time signature.

Musical score for measures 37-38. The system consists of a grand staff with a treble clef and a bass clef. Measure 37 features a triplet of eighth notes in the treble clef and a sixteenth-note scale in the bass clef. Measure 38 continues the sixteenth-note scale in the bass clef. A fermata is placed over the final note of measure 38. A small asterisk is located below the bass clef staff.

Musical score for measures 38-39. The system consists of a grand staff with a treble clef and a bass clef. Measure 38 features a treble clef staff with a melodic line and a bass clef staff with a sixteenth-note scale. A fermata is placed over the final note of measure 38. Measure 39 features a treble clef staff with a melodic line and a bass clef staff with a sixteenth-note scale. A fermata is placed over the final note of measure 39. The dynamic marking piu f is written above the treble clef staff. A small asterisk is located below the bass clef staff.

Musical score for measures 39-40. The system consists of a grand staff with a treble clef and a bass clef. Measure 39 features a treble clef staff with a melodic line and a bass clef staff with a sixteenth-note scale. A fermata is placed over the final note of measure 39. Measure 40 features a treble clef staff with a melodic line and a bass clef staff with a sixteenth-note scale. A fermata is placed over the final note of measure 40. The dynamic marking ff is written above the treble clef staff. A small asterisk is located below the bass clef staff.

Musical score for measures 40-41. The system consists of a grand staff with a treble clef and a bass clef. Measure 40 features a treble clef staff with a melodic line and a bass clef staff with a sixteenth-note scale. A fermata is placed over the final note of measure 40. Measure 41 features a treble clef staff with a melodic line and a bass clef staff with a sixteenth-note scale. A fermata is placed over the final note of measure 41. The dynamic marking molto diminuendo is written below the bass clef staff. The marking m.d. is written below the bass clef staff.

mouvement (plus à l'aise)

sempre pp

57 volubile

m.s.

3

58

m.s.

59

m.s.

les basses légères et harmonieuses

60 pp m.s.

rubato

8va - - -

right hand glissando

61 pp *

pp m.s.

pp p

8va - - -

8vb - - -

8va - - -

right hand glissando

63 pp

pp p

pp pp

8va - - -

8vb - - -

doux et harmonieux (molto rubato)

(8va) - - -

3

65 pp m.s.

8va - - -

66 pp

incisif et rapide

8^{va}

quasi cadenza

(8^{va})

loco

8^{va}

(8^{va})

8^{va}

incisif

più f mouvement

f

pp subito

S^{va}

pp

p

p

sotto

p crescendo

79 molto crescendo

81 f m.d. éclatant f

S_{vb} S_{vb}

83 più f p subito

84 f f

S_{vb} S_{vb}

86 più f e crescendo

87 ff 8va

89 ff glissandi plus lent mf m.d. p très retenu più p pp m.d.

92 encore plus lent de très loin aussi léger et pp que possible 8vb

96 pp 8vb

(... feux d'artifice)

Préludes 1-5 Vocabulary

I	modéré	moderato extrêmement égal et léger	extremely even and light
	la main gauche un peu en valeur sur la main droite	left hand with slightly more weight than the right
	cédez	slow down
	mouvement	a tempo
	un peu en dehors	a little in relief
	un peu retenu	a little held back
	un peu marqué	a little marked
	en retenant et en effaçant	holding back and dying away
	presque plus rien	almost nothing more
II	lent et mélancolique	slow and wistful
	doucement soutenu et très expressif	gently sustained and very expressive
	un peu plus allant et plus gravement expressif	a little quicker and more deeply expressive
	un peu en dehors	a little in relief
	plus lent	slower
	marqué	marked
	cédez	ritenuto
	mouvement	a tempo
	dans le sentiment du début	with the same feeling of the opening
	lointain	from afar
III	avec de brusques oppositions d'extrême violence et de passionnée douceur	with abrupt contradictions of extreme violence and gentle passion
	âpre	harsh passionément	passionately
	ironique	sarcastic
	gracieux	graceful
	en retenant	holding back
	un peu retardé	the tempo a little held back
	lointain	from afar
	IV	marqué	marked
		cédez	slow down
sans rigueur		with rhythmic freedom retenu		ritardando
en retenant		held back
doux et rêveur		gentle and dreamy
un peu en dehors		a little in relief
V	calme — doucement expressif	calm — gently expressive
	doux et léger	dolce e leggiro
	un peu animé	a little (more) lively/deeply expressive joyeux	joyous
	cédez	held back
	au mouvement	a tempo
	en retenant	ritenuto
	doucement soutenu sans lourdeur	gently sustained without heaviness

Préludes 6-9 Vocabulary

VI	dans le style et le mouvement d'un Cake Walk	in the style and tempo of a Cake Walk strident	strident
	sec	abrupt
	spirituel et discret	witty and understated traîné	dragging
	très retenu	seriously held back
VII	un peu en dehors	a little in relief
	marqué	marked
	un peu animé	a little animated
	léger	light
	au mouvement	a tempo
	en animant peu à peu	animating gradually
	cédez	held back
	mouvement du début	tempo primo
	plus lent	slower
	timbrez légèrement la petite note	lightly accentuate the acciaccatura
VIII	retenu	held back
	au mouvement	a tempo
	scintillant	brilliant
	doux	gentle
	à l'aise	at ease
	en dehors	in relief
	le double plus lent	twice as slow
	un peu au-dessous du mouvement	the tempo a little less quick doucement marqué	gently marked
	aussi léger que possible	as light as possible
IX	aimable	amiable
	expressif	expressive
	peu à peu animé	little by little (more) lively
	retenu	held back
	léger	light
	[premier] mouvement	tempo [primo] animez un peu	a little more lively
	même mouvement	l'istesso tempo
	lointain	from afar

Préludes 10 - 12

X

très calme et doucement triste	very calm and quietly sorrowful
cédez	slow down
mouvement	a tempo
animez un peu	a little more lively
marqué	marked
premier mouvement	a tempo primo
retenu	held back
plus lent	slower tempo
très doux et très expressif	very gentle and very expressive
très lent	very slow
encore plus doux	even softer

XI

modérément animé	fairly animated
cédez	slow down
un peu plus animé	a little quicker légèrement détaché sans sécheresse	lightly detached without being monotonous
les notes marquées du signe - doucement timbrées	notes marked with the sign - gently marked
doux et lié	gentle and legato
retenu	held back
gracieux	graceful
au mouvement	a tempo

XII

modérément animé	fairly animated
léger, égal et lointain	light, even and from afar
marqué	marked
en se rapprochant peu à peu	gradually becoming nearer
très en dehors	much in relief strident	piercing
laisser vibrer	keep the pedal on
plus à l'aise	more calm volubile	flowing, fluent
les basses légères et harmonieuses	the bass light and harmonious
doux	gentle
incisif et rapide	cutting and rapid mouvement élargi	broader tempo éclatant	spectacular
très retenu	seriously held back
encore plus lent	even slower tempo

D E B U S S Y

PRÉLUDES livre II

published 2018 revised 2023

Please send comments and error reports to Ray Alston : contact@pianopracticaleditions.com

Piano Practical Editions pianopracticaleditions.com